course description

The purpose of this course is to introduce you to the history, structure, and function of the Mass Media, including print, broadcast, visual, and digital forms. In an effort to increase media literacy and become more informed and discerning media consumers, we will be studying a diverse array of media texts including films, television shows, advertisements, newspapers, magazines, music videos, audio recordings, social media, and the Internet. Particular attention throughout the course will be paid to mass communication issues relating to diverse political, cultural, and social communities.

student learning outcomes

- ~ Critically assess the history, structure, and function of various mass communication forms.
- ~ Demonstrate oral and written competence of the evolution of mass media as a result of emerging technologies, cultural conditions, and human ingenuity.
- ~ Trace the influences of mass media forms on major cultural practices and social formations.
- ~ Identify examples of how mass media affects contemporary social, political, and cultural climates.
- ~ Classify the various types of mass communication in terms of their underlying technologies, artists and innovators, industry structure, and consumers.

course requirements

Class Lectures & Screenings: You are responsible for attending the class lecture every week. It is incumbent upon you to be prepared, and you should come to class each session having read the reading assignment posted on the schedule. Please email me if you know you cannot make it to section on a given day. There is no talking/discussion during the films, audio recordings, or clips. I will dismiss you from the course if you become a disruption during the lectures. Your enrollment in this class is your responsibility, and it is incumbent upon you to double-check your enrollment status periodically throughout the semester, as I do not maintain my rosters after the census has been processed. If at any time you decide that you do not wish to continue with the course, it is your responsibility to drop, as I do not take it upon myself to drop anyone from the course.

I encourage you to use your personal computer, iPad, or other learning tool during class time if you are using it appropriately (viewing class slides, taking notes), however, be sure to turn off any noisemaking functions on those and any other electronic devices such as cell phones, iPods, etc. Please keep the brightness levels on all LED screens at low intensity. There is no food allowed in class at any time (drinks are okay). Copies of all the lectures are available on the course website for download and review. If you require any additional accommodations such as a note taker, testing services, captions, or special chairs/desks, please speak with me personally, or provide the proper authorization letter from the Disability Resources Department.

Readings: It is incumbent upon you to be prepared, and you should come to class each session having read the reading assignment posted on the schedule. We will be spending as much time discussing the readings as the texts, and a firm understanding of them will benefit your overall understanding/interpretation of the material. All readings are located on the course website.

Discussion & Participation: You are expected to be actively involved in the class discussions, as your participation is key to your success in this course. My goal is to aid in the development of your critical/analytical skills, and I expect everyone to maintain an open mind, and take a creative approach to the material. Be respectful of your fellow classmates when addressing and critiquing conflicting viewpoints. At times throughout the semester we will be breaking the class into smaller groups to discuss specific issues in media culture. As part of your participation grade, you will be required to give one in-class presentation at some point during the semester on the discussion topic for the week.

assessments and grading

There are 410 total points available in the course, and your overall grade will be determined by your performance on the following assessments:

Discussion and In-class Participation (150 pts.)	A = 410 - 368
Contemporary Culture Short-Answer (60 pts.)	B = 367 - 327
Infotainment Essay (100 pts.)	C = 326 - 286
Media Analysis Project (100 pts.)	D = 285 - 245
	F = 244 - 0

Contemporary Culture, Infotainment, and Media Analysis Assignments: In addition to the weekly participation, there are three assignments this semester, each due by the time class starts on their assigned dates. Late assignments will be accepted for up to one week, and will incur a 10-point penalty. No late assignments will be accepted after one week. There will be no opportunity for re-writes after grading, as good writing skills are a must in this course. Please submit your work to me through the Turnitin.com application (discussed in further detail in the Assignments section on the course website). You are required to visit the course website to view the assignment questions and clips, as there are additional writing and formatting guidelines for you to review.

* NOTE * Plagiarism and other issues concerning academic integrity will not be tolerated, and are grounds for an automatic failure in the course. Acknowledge all reading and research sources with appropriate footnotes and bibliography. Keep all copies of your quizzes and notes until you have received a final grade for this class.
